

Mon 6/13/2016 2:32 PM

(b) (6)

Portland Harbor Superfund

To ☐ HarborComments

The proposed plan does not include enough "active" cleanup (removing contaminated sediments from the river), and relies too much on "natural recovery", which means waiting for the river to move the contaminated sediments out on its own. This will take decades or even centuries, so species and humans would continue to be at risk from contamination for a long time. We need to hold the companies who made the mess responsible, and hold them accountable for the cleanup, even if the cost is significant. They have made money from the river which belongs to everyone! Now they need to step up to restore it.

I am a retired woman who regularly enjoys walks by the river, and taking my dogs to swim at Mary S. Young Park, in West Linn.

I want action now, not in twenty years when I'm no longer alive.

Sincerely,

(b) (6)

(b) (6)

Tigard, OR 97223

(b) (6)

Sent from Mail for Windows 10